A RARE SAFARI. A PRIVILEGED ROUTE.

This is no ordinary journey, a private flying expedition which takes us deep into two of East Africa's most beautiful, remote and untouched corners. The itinerary has been specifically designed to visit two areas that are at the top of his safari bucket list. All internal travel is by private plane, taking us from Nairobi to Kidepo Valley in Uganda – a wild, game-rich park that few travellers ever reach – then on to Koros Camp near Lake Turkana, one of Kenya's most remote and captivating regions. We'll travel in style aboard Tropic Air's Grand Caravan – a comfortable private charter that gets us exactly where we want to go, quickly and efficiently.

We'll spend four nights at Apoka Safari Lodge, the only fully serviced lodge inside Kidepo Valley National Park, overlooking the wildlife-rich Narus Valley. Here, we'll enjoy exclusive game drives in a park that is home to elephant, lion, Uganda's only cheetahs and some of the largest herds of buffalo in Africa.

From there, we fly on to Koros Camp, just south of Lake Turkana – and we'll have it entirely to ourselves. With only six rooms, it offers an intimate base to explore Northern Kenya's stark and mesmerising landscapes. Quad biking, walking, boating, camping and cultural experiences are all on the cards.

With just ten or eleven guests, this is a unique opportunity to explore the wild heart of East Africa in comfort and privacy. A safari for those who've seen the classics – and want something different.

Hamish Van Gruisen

Hamish grew up in Gloucestershire, but it was time spent far from home that sparked his love for travel. Early family safaris in East Africa and treks through the Nepalese Himalaya planted the seeds of a lifelong curiosity, not just for landscapes and wildlife, but for how people live and what they value. Since joining Ultimate, Hamish has been fortunate to explore parts of the world that have both challenged and inspired him. From running an ultra-marathon in the beautiful (but very sandy) Wadi Rum to experiencing the intricate ritual of a geisha tea ceremony in Kyoto, each destination offers a fresh perspective and, at times, a humbling reminder of our place in the world. For Hamish, these experiences aren't just memories. They shape the way holidays are crafted at Ultimate, because the best kind of travel doesn't just take you somewhere new; it changes the way you see the world.
